

A close-up photograph of the fore-edge of a book. The binding material, visible on the left, is a dark, textured cloth. The edges of the pages are visible, showing a light beige or cream color. The book is resting on a dark surface.

