

A close-up photograph of a book's cover. The left side features a light-colored, textured material, possibly paper or cloth, with a small, dark, rectangular label near the top edge. The right side is a dark, patterned material, likely marbled paper or leather, with a green and black floral or abstract design. The two materials are joined by a vertical seam.

